

ABSTRACT

In an implementation of spread spectrum clocking for data transfer bus loading, a frequency spread deviation for spread spectrum clocking of data transferred via a data transfer bus is adjusted according to operating conditions of a data control system, where the operating conditions correspond to data transfer bus loading.